Clean Elections Decision Upheld – Judge Says Quelland is Out

Phoenix - Administrative Law Judge Thomas Shedden has ruled that Representative Doug Quelland (R-10) should be removed from office.

Citing Quelland's testimony as defying reason that the work done by Larry Davis and his firm, Intermedia Public Relations, was for Quelland's now defunct coffee shop.

"The voters of District 10 are the clear winners with Judge Shedden upholding the earlier decision by the Clean Elections Commission to oust Rep. Quelland from office," said Jackie Thrasher, a former Representative and current candidate for the House of Representatives in District 10 (Glendale/Phoenix). "Voters in District 10 were denied a fair election on November 4, 2008. The process that resulted in this decision confirms my faith in the system. It just doesn't pay to cheat."

Thrasher, who was a 'clean' candidate in the 2008 election cycle, lost her bid for re-election to Quelland by 553 votes.
